How to be a "Nobody." To the Bloomfield Citizen:

It is easy to be a nobody, and the Watch man tells how to do it. Go to the drinking saloon to spend you leisure time. You need not drink much now, just a little beer or some other drink. In the meantime, play dominoes, checkers, or something else to kill time, so that you will be sure not to read any useful books. If you read anything, let it be the dime novel of the day. Thus go on keeping your stomach full and your head empty, and yourself playing time-killing games, and in a few years you will be a first-class nobody, unless you should turn out a drunkard or a professional gambler, either of which is worse than a nobody. ### A Very Happy Event.

W. H. Ferris, living at 1718 Madison avenue, New York, writes us: "I owe one of the happiest events of my life to Paxine. It has proved the means of curing me of that most distressing complaint, dyspepsia. As other remedies did me no good and dieting produced no beneficial effect. I had about abandoned all hope of a cure until I tried this wonderful remedy. With the greatest pleasure I praise and recommend Paxine to all sufferers from dyspepsia with whom I come in contact, and wish you all success in dispensing so valuable a remedy." Paxine is sold by druggists, or delivered free by express to any address in the United States on receipt of price, 50c. and $1.00 a bottle. Instructive pamphlet mailed free. The Dennis M'f'g. Co. (Limited), 20 Vesey St., New York. See advertisement in this paSONG OF THE SNOWFLAKE.

REMOVED BY ELECTRICITY.

E. F. Pellew in Temple Bar.

lovel Surgical Operations-Successful Removal of Moles and Wens.

A friend has been telling me of his own and his wife's experience in having moles ind wens removed by electricity. His wife had on her right shoulder a blemish n the form of a large mole, quite half an inch in diameter, which practically made t impossible for her to wear ball or evening dresses, which would reveal her otherwise shapely shoulders. She accilentally heard of the electric operations. and, obtaining the address of the surgeon who performs them, she went without her husband's knowledge to his office and submitted to the operation. It required about a week to heal the wounds made by the needles with which the mole was perforated in every direction; then the nole, which had been burned to a dry, black crisp fell off, leaving the shoulder perfectly white, and with only the slightest indication to show where the discoloration had been. A new skin formed over t, and there is hardly a noticeable blemsh there now. Success inspired her to nsist on her husband's undergoing the same operation on a more delicate part of nis person-namely, his nose. He thus ells his story:

"I had on my nose at birth, so I was old, a wen, which grew with my years intil I became a man, and for many years it greatly disfigured my countenance. It was about the size of a pea, and was on my left nostril, It changed color from time to time, and would grow be a frightful sanguinary red whenever I indulged myself with wines and liquors of any sort. I came to regard it at times as a 'gin blossom,' and an irreverent reporter in describing me once sugzested that this object had evidently been one of long and patient and costly culture. I went on my wife's urgent entreaty to her surgeon and asked him if it could be removed. He looked at it and suggested that it might be if I would not look upon the wine when it was red; but I told him I was born so. He examined further, and at once proceeded to oper-

He bathed my nose, first of all, in coaine. It grew cold at first, then became perfectly numb, as though asleep from lack of circulation of the blood. It felt as if paralyzed. He then applied an electric needle to the wen, sticking it through and through, as near the roots as possi-ble. There was no pain, though half an hour was consumed in the operation. Whenever he increased the current of electricity I saw billions of stars, and sparks seemed to flash from my eyes; and the eyeballs seemed to crack with each spark that apparently flew from them. When the operation was completed the wen was black, no longer red, and more unsightly than ever. He put flesh colored court plaster over it and kept it here for about a week. Then in washing it off the mass of blackened flesh fell away. A new skin formed, and you can barely see a small scar where the unsightly object once was,"-Nashville

"Clipping" Street Car Mulcs. If you will notice, you will see that all the street car mules are closely clipped in the fall. To the unknowing this doubtless looks cruel, as nature seems to intend that the hair of animals shall grow long every fall to protect them against the cold. It may be cruel in many cases, but it is different with the street car mule; it is a sanitary precaution. His hair grows much longer in winter than that of a horse, and when he travels at a lively rate, as he is made to do in a car, he perspires freely, and the hair preserves the dampness for a long time. Hence, when he is at rest, be freezes and gets the rheumatism. With his hair clipped, he may be colder in the stable, but he is all right while traveling, and dries off afterward without any unpleasant consequences. It is not necessary to do this clipping with horses unless they have unusually long hair. They do not perspire like mules, and hence do not need clipping except in the spring. A horse that has once been clipped must be clipped ever afterward, or he will catch cold or suffer the heat badly. - Globe-Democrat.

An English View of the Negro. I returned to my own quarters, reflecting on the scenes I had witnessed, and I could not forbear wondering how far these civilized "southern Metho-Baptists"-as the B--- negroes called of their savage African ancestors. There is small room for doubt that the plantation negro is profoundly ignorant and superstitious; his belief in witchcraft, "charms," i. e., fetishes, and medicine men or women, being almost as strong (though kept strictly secret) in the civilized (?) emancipated negro of today as when he was first transplanted from his native African soil to the shores of the great American continent.—Times.

Warning to Art Collectors.

It is proper to warn art collectors against purchasing any Rembrandts, Durers or Raphaels which may stray into the market at present. A new scientific process of copying is said to have been applied to the pictures in the Esterhazy gallery at Pesth with startling results, and the fact has become a subject of investigation by the Hungarian congress .-Chicago News,

Medicine and Theology.

The coupling of medicine with theology in the Christian mission to Corea promises success. Since 1885 five. American missionaries and their wives have been laboring in the capital city through the medium of schools and a hospital. Such success crowned the first surgical operation which the medical missionary performed that the confidence of the natives in his ability led them so far asseven to bring him dead people to be restored to life. - Chicago Times.
